My opening writing:

It was like nothing she'd ever seen before. The soft silk of the sole and the perfectly placed gemstones were incredibly unique. As she stared in disbelief at the shiny glass of the heel, she picked up her niece's metallic cup and took a long sip of her hot coffee. She pushed up her glasses and slowly stroked her dark brown puppy who was calmly sitting on her lap. She gently grasped the shoe and examined it some more. Her fingers ran over some mysterious writing along the edge of the shoe. As she read it, her eyes widened and her body started to tremble.
